Cause of the Collision. According to Dr. Frank Powers, the town medical examiner, the accident was caused when the motorman of the picnic train. Frank Nadin of Norwalk, put on all speed, while going down hill, in an endeavor to reach a siding before the arrival of the trolley freight, which he knew was coming. Dr. Powers says that Nadin's cars were traveling so fast that even if there had been no collision, they would have been derailed, as the brakes were not set.

A Terrific Crash.

A Terrific Crash. There was a terrific crash, as the cars that and the air was filled with splinters and dust. The trolley freight ploughed through the first picule car, which was virtually smashed to pieces. Only the two rear seats and the trucks now remain. Even the roof was wrenched off, and tossed to one side of the tracks. The four persons who were killed were sitting on the front seat. Dr. Powers says it is a miracle that all in the first car were not killed. A Panio Ensued.

A panic ensued after the crash. The shricks and groans of the injured could be heard for blocks. Some of the picnickers in the rear cars at once started the work of rescue, although many of the rescuers were injured themselves. All the physicians in the right wars summoned. Twelve pervicinity were summoned. Twelve persons were hurried in ambulances and private automobiles to the Norwalk hospital, where Frank Nagry died a few hours later. Caillaux Again Central Figure

IN TRIAL OF HIS WIFE FOR KILL-ING EDITOR CALMETTE.

Procurator General Accused Former Premier of Transforming Criminal Trial Into Trial of a Political Cause,

Paris. July 22—The ex-premier, Jo-seph Caillaux, was again the central figure today in the proceedings in the court of assisize, where his wife, Mme. Henriette Caillaux, is on trial for the killing of Gaston Calmette, editor of the Figaro. The courtroom was crowded to its utmost capacity in the expectation of sensational revelations arising from M. Laboris closing ulti-matum o flast night, when he declared he would refuse to plead unless a full statement was made by the govern-ment regarding documents which, it was alleged, were important enough to crush Calliaux. On the opening of the court this

On the opening of the court this morning the procurator general said he was authorized by the government to declare that the documents referred to in yesterday's testimony did not exist. Instead, therefore, of utterly discrediting the ex-premier, the incident ended in his triumph, as his brilliant antagonist, M. Chenu, counsel for the Calmette family, was obliged to acknowledge. When the procurator general resumed his seat, M. La. borl, counsel for Mme. Caillaux, suid: "We consider the incident closed." M. Chenu replied sarcastically:

Admires Caillaux's Skill.

Admires Caillaux's Skill.

"The incident is closed to the satisfaction of M. Calllaux, but to my mnid it was nothing but a clever diversion most opportunely arranged, and I admire the skill with which it was arranged. It has pleased M. Caillaux to transform a criminal trial into the trial of a political cause. Somehow as the result of diremmstances which escape my comprehension we reach this cape my comprehension, we reach this paradoxical issue: that Caillaux comes out of the proceedings with a certificate of dishteraged paradoxical cate of disinterested patriotism."

The radical leader, from his seat in the body of the court, followed the case with the closest attention. Occasionally he would look tenderly in the direction of his wife with an encourage. apprehend him.

When the uproar which this utternu replied: "I will take the entire responsibility. You cannot menace me

M. Caillaux did not interpose further in the proceedings until Auguste Avril, political editor of the Figaro, in his disposition declared that early in November, 1913, M. Calllaux had stopped him in the lobby of the chamber and asked how much longer Calmette was going to continue his campaign. He gave an evasive answer and M. Calllaux then said to him: "You know I am a crack shot. I go every day to the shooting gallery and get a bullsey eye every time." eye every time."

Ex-Premier Confronted Witness. The ex-premier immediately jumped up and demanded to be confronted with the wintess. The two stood face to face at the bar. M. Caillaux affirmed that he had no recollection of ever saying such a thing; M. Avril maintained with equal determination the exactitude of his testimony. Finally the two men withdraw and the matter the two men withdrew and the matter resolved itself into a question of reliability.

As M. Caillaux left the court at close of the hearing, many hands were outstretched to him, some those of acquaintances, others of total strangers. He seemed to be deeply touched by these manifestations of sympathy and exclaimed in a voice shaken with real emotion: "I see I still have some friends left"

M. Caillaux Cheered.

A small crowd assembled outside the main gates of the palace of justice to see M. Caillaux depart. They gave him a rousing cheer, mingled with a few hisses. M. Caillaux, accompanied by Deputy Pascal Ceccaldi, went to the Conclergerie and spent an hour with his wife. Meanwhile, on the op-posite side of the palace, close to the statue of Henry IV on the Pont-Neuf, a small crowd, waiting in vain to see the ex-premier, began to discuss the case and soon came to blows.
